IOSH Managing Safety

IOSH Managing safety has become the international industry standard for helping to establish health and safety competence for those with responsibilities for managing others in the workplace. This course has been designed to meet the needs of managers from any type of organisation who are required to manage employees and their work activities in compliance with both the company's safety policy and health and safety legislation. This course is unlike any other. You will find it a practical programme, full of step by step guidance and equally important it has a sharp business focus.

Course content

Upon completion of this course, candidates will be able to:

- Apply basic management principles and practices to health and safety issues
- Recognise risks present in the workplace and be able to set appropriate control measures
- Set practicable health and safety objectives and be able to plan and implement courses to achieve those objectives
- Ensure that adequate information, instruction, training and supervision is provided within the workplace, including risk assessments
- Take account of risks posed by human factors
- Investigate all incidents involving injury or damage in order to determine the causes and to take appropriate remedial actions
- Communicate effectively on health and safety issues with superiors, work people and health and safety professionals
- Understand the main legal responsibilities of employers and managers and to act to fulfil them

Course Duration

This course is delivered over 4 days at our training room in Lincoln, at your organisations premises or at a convenient location for you.

Certification
